Four More Die In Lagos Bank Robbery

Four more persons, including a policeman, have so far been reported dead at the Ikeja General Hospital from the bank robbery incident in Ketu, an outskirt of Lagos, on Friday, which left at least 12 persons dead.

The Chief Medical Director of the Ikeja General Hospital (CMD) confirmed in a report monitored in Lagos that one of the casualties in critical condition on Friday actually died.

He also said one other victim, who was shot in the head, will receive brain scan before proper treatment would commence. Other wounded victims of the incident, he added, are responding to treatment.

Relations of the victims, who were at the hospital on Saturday, confirmed that about three of the casualties, brought to the hospital, have so far been reported dead.

The Deputy Police Public Relations Officer, Frank Uba, could however not confirm the number of police casualties involved in the incident.

Dare-devil robbers attacked the Ketu branch of a first generation bank on Friday about 10am, an operation that left at least 12 persons, including two policemen, dead and several others injured.
