

Armed men kill ex-Ogun broadcaster, security guard

June 21, 2026 5:25 pm

The late former staff of Ogun State Television, Mrs. Kitan Oyesiku.

By Taiwo Bankole

Kindly share this story:

Armed men have killed a former staff member of Ogun State Television, Mrs Kitan Oyesiku, popularly known as “Aunty Kitan”, alongside her security guard at her residence in Agodo community along the Abeokuta–Siun–Sagamu Expressway in the early hours of Sunday.

The bodies of the deceased were said to have been deposited at the morgue of the State Hospital, Ijaiye, Abeokuta.

Details surrounding the killings remain sketchy; however, an anonymous source who spoke to our correspondent said, “What we heard was that it was some church members who actually discovered this horrendous incident.

Related News

Reps c'ttee vows tougher oversight midstream oil sector

PHOTOS: Gridlock as protesters barricade popular Oyo roundabout

Secure Nigeria, protect citizens, criminologist urges Tinubu

“They had come around to check on Mrs Oyesiku when they did not see her in the church. On getting to her residence, they found out that the security officer had been killed, and they later also saw that the assailants had also killed Mrs Oyesiku. That was how they raised the alarm in the community.”

When contacted, the spokesperson of the state police command, DSP Oluseyi Babaseyi, confirmed the incident but said the command would soon issue an official statement on the killings.

The late Oyesiku was well known in media circles, having worked with the state-owned television station before her retirement. News of her death has sparked grief among colleagues, friends and residents of the state.