

Police nab man for allegedly killing wife in Edo

The Edo State Police Command has arrested a middle-aged man, identified as TJ, for allegedly killing his wife, Queen, in Auchi, Etsako West Local Government Area of the state.

The suspect was said to have murdered his wife on Tuesday, Sept. 30 with an axe and fled the scene after the incident.

A resident, who spoke on condition of anonymity, told the News

Agency of Nigeria (NAN) that the couple had earlier celebrated the birthday of their two-year-old son before the tragedy.

"There was no sign of a quarrel between them. We all went to bed that night, but by morning, neighbours didn't see them come out and assumed they were still asleep.

"It was their little boy who later came out of the room with bloodstains on his body

"When people saw the stains and noticed he wasn't injured, they rushed into the room and found the woman lying lifeless in a pool of blood, her throat slit," the source said.

The source added that the husband was nowhere to be found and was suspected to have fled immediately after committing the act.

The matter was said to have been subsequently reported to the Auchi Police Division, which launched a manhunt for the suspect.

Confirming the development, CSP Moses Yamu, spokesperson of the police command yesterday in Benin, said the suspect had been arrested and transferred to the State Criminal Investigation Department (CID) for further investigation.

"The suspect has been apprehended and moved to the State CID for proper investigation," Yamu said.

He added that the command would ensure that justice was served in the case.

Navy school Ojo '89 alumni donates laptops to alma mater

The 1989 set of the Nigerian Navy Secondary School (NNSS), Ojo, Lagos State, at the weekend donated 35 brand new laptops to their alma mater in support of digital learning to mark their 35th anniversary celebration at a reunion.

Speaking at the event, which was held at the Nigerian Navy Sports Complex, Navy Town, Ojo, Lagos State, the President of the NNSS Ojo '89 Set, Mr. Oluwathe school, adding that the gesture was deliberately aimed at empowering current students with digital tools that will prepare them for the future of work.

"We are passionate about equipping the students with 21st-century learning tools. The future belongs to those who are digitally prepared, and we want NNSS Ojo students to be at the forefront," Awoyemi said.

In her remarks, the Commandant of NNSS Ojo, Captain Nkari