A veteran female broadcaster, former staff member of the Ogun State Television (OGTV), Mrs Kitan Oyesiku, popularly known as 'Aunty Kitan,' has been found dead alongside her security guard inside her home. According to available information, the retired broadcaster was reported dead to the police by her neighbours yesterday.

Spokesperson of the Ogun State Police Command, DSP Oluseyi Babaseyi, who confirmed the development, said a comprehensive investigation into the circumstances surrounding the deaths has commenced.

He said the incident was reported at Owode Egba Division yesterday by a resident of Iyana Agodo Village, who raised the alarm over suspicious activities at the residence. Police detectives were immediately deployed to the scene, where preliminary assessment revealed signs of forced entry and disturbance.

During a thorough search of the premises, the corpse of the security guard was discovered within the security post, while the body of Oyesiku was found inside her apartment.
