

Tenant kills neighbour over lover girl

LUKKEY ABAWURU

TRAGEDY struck again in Aiegunle area of Lagos State on Wednesday as a tenant, Rolland Moller allegedly killed his co tenant over a girl.

This came just a few days after a local popular musician identified as Norris Cole died after a purported sex romp in a hotel room in the area.

Cole's partner is being quizzed at the State Criminal Investigations Department, SCID, Panti Yaba on the latest case, it was learnt that tangle started when the deceased simply identified as Oyinbo challenged the suspect for bringing woman into the house at late hour.

He was alleged have refused to open the entrance door of the house which made the girl to lose her patience and left the suspect, perhaps for another chance.

An eye witness said that the suspect severally banged on the door to compel Oyinbo to open the door but the later remained adamant.

The witness who pleaded for anonymity alleged that occupants of the house had earlier resolved in their monthly meeting that no person should be allowed to enter the house after mid night. However, the source added that the departure of the lady suspected to be a prostitute infuriated the suspect who after allegedly forcing the door open to vent his anger on the deceased by stabbing him on the chest with a bottle. The deceased died instantly before help could come his way.

Lagos Police Command spokesman, Mr. Frank Mba confirmed the story noting that the corpse had been deposited in a public mortuary for autopsy. He said that investigation has begun, noting that the suspect is been detained at SCID for further investigation.