

Wife murders husband over infidelity

A 28 year-old woman, Rachael Dawari, had been charged to court for allegedly murdering her husband. Dawari appeared before the chief magistrate, Mrs. Ora George of Court 10 at the Rivers state Judiciary Complex along Azik Road in Port Harcourt over alleged murder of her husband, Dawari Oruwari, on September 1, 2006 at about 11.45 pm at their Oroigwe Rumuduru residence in Port Harcourt.

Daily Trust gathered that the deceased was stabbed to death by his wife with a sharp object for infidelity and non-challance to family affairs. It was learnt that the wife's attack led to a profuse bleeding which led to the death of her husband before their neighbours could know what was happening.

According to the charge No PMC/1883C/2006, the offence was punishable under section 319(1) of the criminal code Cap 37 Laws of Rivers state of Nigeria 1999.

Rachael said her husband was responsible for his death because he had left the whole family affairs to her, and that despite his good fortunes she remained starved her of matrimonial demands. Magistrate George adjourned the case to October 27, 2006 for further hearing.
