Confusion in Ogun as truck kills soldier

WRITTEN BY KEHINDE AKINYEMI, ABEOKUTA

FRIDAY, 30 APRIL 2010 22:36

Confusion broke out yesterday at the popular Lafenwa Market, Abeokuta, Ogun State, when Soldiers from the 32 FAB Artillery Brigade of Nigerian Army, Alamala Barracks, Abeokuta stormed the area following the killing of a colleague by a truck along the busy Lafenwa/ Ayetoro road.

The deceased, Warrant Officer II Fagbemi was killed in a ghastly motor accident along the road, while on his way to the barracks, about four kilometres from the popular market. The accident was said to have occurred at the opposite of the Crescent University.

Our Correspondent gathered that Fagbemi died on the spot before any rescue mission could be administered, while information as to where his corpse was deposited could not be obtained as at the time of filing this report.

After the news filtered into the barracks, soldiers, in tens, went wild in protest of the killing, apparently after the culprit driver. The development led to markets being hurriedly closed and commercial taxis plying the route making detours. Efforts to get an official report from the barracks bore no fruit.
