Police kill two robbers in gun battle

Monday, 29 November 2010 00:00 Yahaya Ibrahim, Maiduguri

Share Policemen in Borno State at the weekend killed two armed robbers during a gun battle with armed bandits who had for some time been terrorizing villagers at Kushi district in Bama Local Government Area of the state.

The Commissioner of Police Muhammed J. Abubakar disclosed this yesterday to newsmen in Maiduguri. According to him, two AK 47 rifles and 10 loaded magazines were recovered from the bandits. He said policemen from Bama area command had been monitoring the activities of the robbers who are fond of attacking traders at a market in the area before two of them were killed in a gun battle with the police on Saturday.

CP Abubakar said the bandits who are from Cameroon and Chad always attack the market when transactions are in progress or after sales.

"The bandits gave the people notice of their arrival so on the third day when people did not give them homage they attacked the market and the police who have been monitoring the place, based on intelligence, heard this and together with the vigilante group, engaged the robbers in gun battle and two of them were gunned down" he said. The commissioner also said he had directed the area commander to beef up security in the area in order to prevent a reprisal.

CP Abubakar called on members of the public to continue to assist the police with information in order to get rid of miscreants in the state.
