He said the statistics was arrived at on the spot assessment as well as a second visit, saying the church buildings, worshipers' vehicles and residential buildings around the church were also destroyed.

According to him, the perpetrators of the act and their sponsors wanted to use religion to sow seed of discord in the country for their selfish end.

He said CAN was able to calm down Christian youths from embarking on reprisal attacks after the Christmas day bomb blast adding that "our patience should not be taken for granted, neither should we be considered as cowards." Dada therefore called on governments at all levels to step up action in bringing the perpetrators of the acts to book and advise government as well as security agencies to take proactive measures "rather than coming in as medicine after death."
