Suspected hoodlums allegedly beat a Fulani man to death around Wurukum area of Makurdi, the Benue State capital yesterday.

Weekly Trust could not immediately ascertain the argument that led to the scuffle between the deceased and the hoodlums, but the state secretary of Miyetti Allah Cattle Breeders Association (MACBAN), GarusGololo, said the Fulani man had travelled all the way from Kano and was crossing the road to board a vehicle at the Benue Links Park to Biasa in Taraba state when he met his untimely death.

Gololo, who expressed fear that the killing of the traveller might be connected to the current Tiv farmers/Fulani herders crisis in the state, appealed to the feuding parties to end the bitter rivalry for peace to prevail.

Meanwhile, the state Police Public Relations Officer (PPRO), SP Daniel Ezeala, confirmed that there was a problem at the Wurukum area but said that the police were yet to get the details at the time of this report.
