Gunmen yesterday killed 10 traders who were returning from a local market in Bali local government area of Taraba state.

Sunday Trust gathered that the traders numbering about 50 were being conveyed in a vehicle from a local market at Garba Chede on their way to Maihula village when unknown gunmen attacked, killing 10 of them while others sustained injuries. The traders were said to be travelling through a feeder road linking the village when the gunmen suddenly emerged and launched attack on them.

Taraba Police Spokesman, ASP Joseph Kwaji confirmed the attack, saying that 10 traders were killed by unknown gunmen while returning from Garba Chede Market in Bali local government area of the state.

Kwaji said the police mobilized men to the scene of the incident immediately where they recovered three empty shells of AK47 cartridges and some cartridges for double barrel guns. He said no arrest had been made, adding that investigations had commenced with a view to apprehending the perpetrators of the crime.
