armed robbers in his home at Kado Estate near Gwarinpa in the Federal Capital Territory, Abuja.

A traumatized NFF General Secretary, Dr. Mohammed Sanusi said of Abubakar's sudden death:

"He was full of life when he left the office yesterday; the Federation has lost a dedicated and assiduous staff. This is so painful."

'Ibro' as he is fondly called, joined the Nigeria Football Federation in 2007. He was buried later yesterday at his residence in Kaduna according to Islamic rites.

However, a source from the Glass House who did not want to be mentioned, told Daily Trust that the killing smacks of assassination as Abubakar's killers did not take anything away from the house.

Former Arsenal striker Nwankwo Kanu has described Abubakar's death as "bad and sad news" on social media.

Local media have reported that Abubakar is survived by his wife and three children. He will be buried in Kaduna in the north-west of the country.

The Super Eagles media officer Oluwatoyin Ibitoye said the killing was "shocking, devastating and tragic".
