Two suspected armed robbers arrested after a gun duel with operatives of the Counter Terrorism Unit of the police in Enugu yesterday

Operatives of the Counter Terrorism Unit of the Enugu State Police Command said they have smashed a notorious armed robbery syndicate after a gun fight between the operatives and the hoodlums who dressed in army camouflage. The State Police spokesman, SP Ebere Amaraizu explained in a statement that the operatives on duty along Enugu-Markurdi road, Nsukka area had received a distress call that armed hoodlums had blocked Nsukka-Markurdi road by Inyi in Igboeze North local Government Area of the state and were wreaking havoc on their victims, and that following the distress call, the operatives quickly mobilised and went into action, leading to the exchange of fire during which one of the armed hoodlums was injured and later confirmed dead by a doctor, according to Amaraizu.
