Herder's death in Rivers: ACF sues for peace

From Victor Edozie, P\Harcourt

The South-south and South-east coordinator of Arewa Consultative Forum (ACF), Alhaji Musa Saidu, has called on all the herders and other members of the Hausa/Fulani community in Rivers State to remain calm and wait for the outcome of police investigation into the circumstances surrounding the death of a herder, Abdullahi Adamu, at Afam-

Uku in Oyigbo Local Government Area of the state.

Abdullahi Adamu was killed last week by irate youths of Afam-Uku who were on a reprisal attack over the killing of one of their kinsmen allegedly by herders at Afam-Uku.

Alhaji Saidu who spoke with Daily Trust in Port Harcourt yesterday said the appeal had become necessary following reports that some herders were planning a reprisal on the community.

"I have been talking to my people to eschewed any act of violence. The police have stepped in and they have assured us that all those behind the killings would be made to face the law. We don't want bloodshed from either side," he said, adding that the northern community had lived in Rivers for decades and he did not want anything that would now bring disunity between them and the host communities.
