Two children, two and three years old, died at the weekend after part of a room in their compound collapsed on them in Idu-Karmo, an Abuja suburb.

The father of one of the children, Adamu Sama'ila, said he was outside the compound alongside the mother of his late daughter, three-year-old Anabe, when the incident happened.

"While inside, I noticed rainstorm, so I rushed back to call them in; that was when the building collapsed.

Sama'ila further stated that the two children were playing by the building when the incident took place.

Also speaking, the father of the other victim, Isiaka Isa, said though his two-year-old son, Ibrahim and the other child were pulled out from the rubble of the collapsed building alive, they died before getting to Gwarimpa General Hospital. They were buried on Saturday evening.
