Wife kills hubby who caught her with another man in Edo

From Usman A. Bello, Benin

A man identified as Abdulateef has reportedly been stabbed to death by his wife after he caught her with a man in their matrimonial home.

It was gathered that the incident happened around 3am on Sunday in Jattu, Etsako West LGA of Edo State, when the woman stabbed her husband when he came home and met a man with her in their bedroom.

A reliable source said, "The man was living with two wives in his house, but had to rent an apartment for his first wife in a different location to allow peace to reign, while staying with the junior one in the house.

"He used to visit the first wife and spend some nights there, but there had been rumours that another man was visiting the junior wife anytime he was with the senior wife in the rented apartment."

The source said on the faithful night, Abdulateef came from his first wife's place and met a man with his junior wife in their bedroom.

The source explained that, "He got hold of the visitor and in the process, the woman stabbed him twice on his stomach, apparently to pave way for the alleged lover to escape and make it look like a robbery attack.

"Abdulateef died as a result of the injuries before help could come. The arrival of the police saved the wife from being killed by a mob."

The state police command's spokesperson, Bello Kongtons, said the woman has been arrested.
