Soldier kills colleague, aid worker, injure UN co-pilot in Borno

From Hamisu Kabir Matazu, Maiduguri

The Nigerian Army has said a soldier has killed his colleague, an aid worker and injured a copilot of United Nations helicopters before he was killed by troops on ground.

The Assistant
Director, Army Public
Relations, Headquarters
Theatre Command,
Operation HADIN KAI,

Major Samson Nantip Zhakom, disclosed this in a statement on Thursday.

Zhakom said the injured co-pilot had been stabilised while the corpses of the deceased had been moved to the 7 Division Hospital.

"Detailed investigation into the incident and subsequent remedial actions have commenced into the highly regrettable incident.

"Further details will be provided later," he added.
