

Corpse Of Kidnapped Former Imo Speaker's Orderly Found

The decomposing body of a kidnapped policeman serving in Imo State Police Command has been found. The victim, identified as Charles, was said to be...

By Jude Aguguo Owuamanam,

Fri, 9 Jun 2023 15:23:58 WAT

The decomposing body of a kidnapped policeman serving in Imo State Police Command has been found.

The victim, identified as Charles, was said to be an orderly to a former Speaker of the Imo State House of Assembly, Chiji Collins.

He was said to have been found dead in a bush in the Oguta Local Government Area of the state a few days ago.

Charles, an Inspector of Police and native of Mbaise, was allegedly abducted a few weeks ago alongside a driver in the Ohaji/Egbema area of the state.

- Azman, IBB, 35 other new private universities get licences
- How economy fared under Obasanjo, Yar'adua, Jonathan, Buhari

The duo were said to be riding in a Hilux and a Sports Utility Vehicle when they were intercepted by their attackers and taken into a bush.

While the driver was later found dead, Charles whereabouts was unknown.

However his decomposing body was later found in a bush few.

A police source at the command said that the entire officers and men were grieved by the killing of the policeman.

The Police Public Relations Officer in the state, ASP Henry Okoye, confirmed the incident, stressing that the state Commissioner of Police, Muhammed Barde, had ordered an investigation into the incident with a view to apprehending the killers.

He stated that the police would ensure that the perpetrators were apprehended and made to face the consequences.