

Police Kill Two Kidnappers, Rescue Abducted Indians In Ogun

Operatives of the Ogun Police Command have killed two suspects and rescued four captives after a gun battle with kidnappers. The captives include a Nigerian...

police

By Peter Moses

Wed, 3 Jul 2024 16:34:59 WAT

Operatives of the Ogun Police Command have killed two suspects and rescued four captives after a gun battle with kidnappers.

The captives include a Nigerian and three indian nationals.

Daily Trust reports that a driver was shot on Sunday night while other travellers were kidnapped by gunmen along the Sagamu-Ijebu-Ode expressway.

The incident occurred near Delabo Junction along the highway.

- Flood: Lagos miscreants charge passersby N100 to use makeshift bridge
- JUST IN: Newly constructed 2-Storey Building collapses in Lagos

Addressing newsmen at the state headquarters at Eleweran, Abeokuta, the Police Commissioner, Abiodun Alamutu, said the anti-kidnapping squad of the command traced the hoodlums into a bush where they were engaged in gun battle.

“Through a covert operation, the suspects were located in a bush where they were hiding. Upon noticing the police officers’ flashlight, they engaged in a gun battle with the law enforcement team.

“The Anti-kidnapping squad’s superior firepower led to the elimination of two suspects, while the remaining criminals escaped with injuries, leaving behind their weapons.

“The victims, later identified as one Nigerian and three Indian nationals, were safely rescued unharmed and reunited with their families,” he said.

Alamutu said 109 rounds of 7.62mm ammunition, 5 AK 47K rifles, eight AK 47 magazines and two cell phones were recovered from the suspects.

He reiterated the command’s commitment “to safeguarding lives and property, a primary duty for us.”