Hoodlums popularly known as Sara Suka have stabbed a tailor, AminuAbdullahi, 23, to death in the Yanshanu community of Jos North Local Government Area of Plateau State.

According to his relatives, the deceased was stabbed severally in the neck while on his way to his tailoring shop, explaining that he was rushed to a hospital in the DutseUku community where he was confirmed dead.

Daily Trust gathered that the killing sparked tension and uncertainty in the community.

“He eventually collected the phone from the gang member and returned it to the owner, a development that the other members of the group were not happy with.

“Hours before the incident, the members of the gang had threatened to kill him for his action against their colleague. Realizing their intentions, he immediately reported the case to a nearby vigilante office to take necessary action.

“After reporting the case, while he was returning to his shop, the gang members ganged up and stabbed him in the neck and chest. Fortunately, he was able to hold on to one of them until members of the vigilante arrived and arrested him.

“But before any medical attention could be given to him, he had given up,” Abdulrahman said.

The parents of the deceased, Malam Abdullahi and Hannatu Suleiman, called on the security agencies to investigate those involved in the killing and bring them to justice, to serve as a deterrent to others.
