A female accountant with the Medical and Health Workers Union of Nigeria, identified as Kasham Thomas, was on Monday found dead inside her car in the Gwarimpa area of Abuja.

This is coming after a corpse of a suspected labourer was found inside a car at the National Assembly complex. The identity of the victim found at the National Assembly is still unknown

The body of the accountant, which had two stab wounds to the chest and stomach, was discovered along 35 Road.

A relative of the deceased told our reporter that Ms. Thomas had been in the Karshi community earlier that day to pick up her two children ahead of their school's resumption.

“She left Karshi around 7 pm and went to her home in Lugbe to drop off the children,” the relative said.

According to the relative, “She left the house after that, with a promise to come back soon.”

A knife, believed to be the murder weapon, and an apple watch were found inside the car with her body, Daily Trust gathered.

Abuja Metro further reports that this incident comes just a week after a Bolt driver was found dead on the Gwarimpa-Kubwa expressway with a stab wound to his neck.

In that case, the victim's car was stolen.

A police source at Gwarimpa division confirmed the incident.
