It was a day of sorrow last Thursday night for the families of five men who rode in a Toyota Carina car along the busy Ninth Mile Corner – Nsukka Expressway in Enugu State. The men perished on the spot after a ghastly auto crash involving three vehicles.

As the time of filing in this report, the identities of the unfortunate victims of the crash, which was said to have been caused by a truck driver, were yet to be known even by the officials of the Federal Road Safety Corps (FRSC) who effected the rescue operation on the scene of the incident at Ohodo in Igbo-Etiti council area of the state.

While the occupants of the car all died, passengers in a commercial bus that was also involved in the accident were luckier, as they only sustained injuries and were admitted at Bishop Shanahan Hospital, Nsukka.

An eye witness said, "It was as a result of overtaking and the stubbornness of the truck driver who refused to give way for the car to pass. All the five men in that Carina car died on the spot."

FRSC officials reportedly arrived the scene of the crash promptly and were engaged in the rescue operation till about midnight, blaring their vehicle sirens as they ferried the dead and the injured into Nsukka town.
