

Daily Newsletter

Enter your email

Subscribe me! »

LATEST

Man, 35, bags seven years imprisonment for rape
10:37 am

West urges de-escalation after Turkey shoots down Russian plane
10:25 am

Dogara condoles with Benue over Tor Tiv's death
10:19 am

PDP demands resignation of AGF, INEC chairman
10:16 am

Atiku pledges to boost democracy, education clocks 69
10:08 am

Home / News / Metro / One feared dead as container falls on bus

One feared dead as container falls on bus

By Tobi Awodipe on November 25, 2015 3:13 am

Tragedy struck yesterday afternoon on the Oshodi/Apapa Expressway at the popular Ilasa Bus Stop, when a container-laden trailer fell on a Toyota Hiace bus resulting in the alleged death of the driver. None of the emergency and rescue officials present confirmed if the driver died.

According to eyewitness reports at the scene of the incidence, the container had been tilting on its side for a while. When it moved into the big ditch at Ilasa, it lost control and fell on a red Toyota bus, crushing it instantly.

Officials of the Lagos State Transport Management Authority (LASTMA) and policemen were present to remove the affected vehicles and control traffic buildup as the congestion had stretched almost as far as Mile 2.

Eyewitnesses blamed the terrible state of the road for the frequent accidents. Last week, two containers fell at that same spot but thankfully no lives were lost. From Sadiku bus stop to Pallet, the road is riddled with massive potholes, which has caused several accidents and traffic buildup.

« « PREVIOUS POST
Modupe Adekunle: The Comrade Head of Service

NEXT POST
StarTimes unveils end of year promo for subscribers » »

Get Our Daily Newsletter:

Subscribe me! »

“ THE GUARDIAN
NEWSPAPERS

Tweets

 The Guardian Nigeria
@NGRGUARDIANNEWS
The currency exchange rates today :
pic.twitter.com/3wFp2SaoP2

 The Guardian

Exchange Monitor

 USD

Tweet to @NGRGUARDIANNEWS