

Another eyewitness said the driver was infamous for rough driving and would have been lynched if he had not disclosed that he was the governor's son. Confirming the incident, Police Area Commandant in charge of Lafia, Maikudi Shehu, said the culprit was already in detention. He said the driver and the car were in police custody and assured the public the police would ensure justice is done.

Advertisement

The protest was curtailed with the intervention of the Commissioner of Education, Tijjani Ahmed, and the police, who calmed the students down and persuaded them to go back into the school premises.

Addressing the students, the Commissioner of Education appealed to the students and family of the deceased to remain calm, while assuring them that the culprit would be brought to book, adding that since the accident occurred around 8p.m. on Sunday, the school authorities have not rested.

He appealed to the family to take solace in God, saying the governor had already constituted a committee that would meet with the family and begin burial arrangement for the deceased.

At the time of filing this report, Ovey's body had been taken to his village in Mada Station, Nasarawa, Eggon Local Council for burial. In another development in Delta, a 13-year-old boy was crushed to death as a reckless bus driver rammed into a shop along Mbiri Road, Umunede.

The incident, which occurred on Sunday night, attracted several persons to the scene as the teenager was killed while on his way to collect his phone from a repairer. Occupant of the shop, Nkpuma Ikechukwu, told newsmen that the bus driver was on top speed.

Police spokesperson in the state, Mr. Andrew Aniamaka, confirmed that the driver has been arrested by the police and is being detained for investigation. Meanwhile, two persons were injured yesterday in Lagos in a head-on collision between a Volks Wagen bus and a Toyota Sport Utility Vehicle (SUV).

The accident occurred around 10:05a.m. at Dopemu Roundabout, when the bus with Registration Number KL-771XM collided with the SUV with Registration Number FC-581 LSR.

Although no life was lost, the bus driver and a female passenger were injured while the occupants of in the SUV escaped unscathed.

The Guardian learnt that the bus had a brake failure. A police traffic officer from Dopemu Division, Bosun Iwasokun, confirmed the incident, saying two persons were injured.

In this article:

Amos Ovey Andrew Aniamaka

Get the latest news a issues from Nigeria, / around the world, dir
inbox, daily

ENTER EMAIL ADDRESS

