

shot LASTMA personnel

trial, dismissal
-year-old girl in Delta

The deceased LASTMA official

o thought the was an armed because he was in ascended on him him to stupor. gh he was later res- teams of police- afted to the scene, gave up the ghost being rushed to a l for treatment. The umber of the pistol red at the scene was ed in the system and ealed the bearer as Inspector Olukunle Olonade attached to FSARS Ikeja.

"Bodies of the deceased have been evacuated to the morgue for autopsy. The CP Lagos has directed that the late Inspector Olakunle Olonade be tried posthumously in orderly room and be recommended for dismissal from the force."

2 Meanwhile, ritual killers struck again in Oghara, Ethiopie West local government area of Delta State yesterday, killing a 12-year-old simply identified as Eguono.

It was gathered that Eguono, whose killers severed her head from body and her vital parts harvested away, was killed around Okwemeva Junction, off Scot Road, an area that had witnessed a number of ritual murders in the last few weeks.

The area is a part Oghara, which is country home of former Delta governor, Chief James Ibori and host community to Delta State University Teaching Hospital (DELSUTH) and the Delta State Polytechnics, Otefe.

No government has excuse not to deliver valuable services to public, Ambode says

THE Lagos State governor, Akinwunmi Ambode, yesterday said no government has excuse not to deliver qualitative and valuable services to the public. Ambode spoke at a two-day training for civil servants held in Ikeja.

The governor, who was represented by the Commissioner for Establishments, Training and Pensions, Dr. Benson Oke, argued that for the pursuit of quality even in the face of a depressed economy, the delivery of mer floods street with wastewater