Obi, through a release by his media aide, Valentine Obienyem, yesterday in Awka, also condoled with the government and people of Anambra, where he reigned as governor for eight years, over the Onitsha tragedy.

Also, Oyo State governor, Abiola Ajimobi, has expressed deep sorrow over the building collapse in Lagos.

In a statement by his Special Adviser on Communication and Strategy, Bolaji Tunji, the governor said he was saddened by the lives lost in the unfortunate incident and the pains it inflicted on families.

He also commiserated with the government and people of Lagos over the incident, while enjoining Governor Akinwunmi Ambode to ensure that “those whose actions or inactions contributed to the tragedy do not escape appropriate punishment.”

Meanwhile, Kaduna State government has debunked rumours that Governor Nasir el-Rufai was involved in a motor accident.

accident, which claimed the life of his driver.

The governor, on his Facebook page, however, fingered the PDP as the mastermind of the rumour.

When journalists made inquiries at the Government House, a staff said: “The governor has travelled overseas. There is nothing like governor involvement in an accident on his way from Abuja. The rumour is from those who don’t wish His Excellency well.”
