

One dies as fire razes house in Modakeke

By NAN

02 February 2020 | 7:02 pm

Minimum wage: Organised labour in Niger to begin strike February 4

2 hours ago

Buhari presents Nigeria's visa policy

1 hour ago

Arrest warrant issued for South Africa's Zuma, suspended until May

2 hours ago

The Osun State Fire Services has confirmed the death of an aged woman, Mrs Omolayo Kolawole, in the fire incident that razed a house at Alapata street, Modakeke-Ife on Saturday.

The Senior Fire Superintendent in Lagere, Ile-Ife, Mr Adeyinmi Adeleye, told the News Agency of Nigeria (NAN) on Sunday in Ile-Ife that incident occurred around 12 am. and that his office was alerted at about 12:29 am.

He said that the fire service station of the Obafemi Awolowo University Ile-Ife and the residents of the area also assisted in halting the inferno.

Adeleye said that the remains of the victim had been handed over to the police and deposited at the morgue of the Obafemi Awolowo University Teaching Hospitals Complex, Ile-Ife.

An eye witness, Mr Bisi Ogunlola, commended the fire service stations at Ile-Ife and that of OAU for the job well done.

Ogunlola told NAN that the fire incident started from the late woman's room through her local lantern (atupa) after the kerosene inside it had spilled on the floor and on the foam.

He said that two aged men, who were also victims, did all they could to rescue the woman but that their efforts did not yield fruit, as she was burnt beyond recognition.

In this article:

fire

modakeke

Osun

Receive News Alerts on Whatsapp: +2348136370421

No comments yet