

Amaechi loses security aide to electrocution

By Benjamin Alade

19 February 2020 | 3:41 am

WHO warns of mask shortages as virus cases rise worldwide

3 hours ago

Mr. Tony Iwelu, the Chief Security Officer (CSO) to the Minister of Transportation, Chibuike Rotimi Amaechi, has passed on. The aide, who died on Monday, February 17, suffered an electric shock from a shower rose in a Kaduna hotel while on an official assignment.

A statement by the Head, Press and Public Relations in the ministry, Eric Ojiekwe, said until his passage, Iwelu was in charge of all issues relating to the minister's security, a job he was reputed to have executed with utmost professionalism. "There is no gainsaying that the professionalism he brought to bear in the discharge of his job sustained him for the over two decades in the service of the minister," the document read in part.

Buhari swears in new Head of Civil Service

3 hours ago

Iraq announces first coronavirus death

2 hours ago

In this article:

Chibuike Rotimi Amaechi

Tony Iwelu

Receive News Alerts on Whatsapp: +2348136370421

No comments yet