

'Good Samaritan' killed during lovers' fight over teenage girl

Olalekan Olabulo | Lagos

A 25-year-old 'good Samaritan' has been killed during a clash between two lovers who were fighting over a teenage girl in Dopemu area of Lagos State.

The state Police Public Relations Officer (PPRO), Bala Elkana, while confirming the incident to the Nigerian Tribune, said the two rivals had been arrested, while the girl was also invited for interrogation.

The Nigerian Tribune gathered that the deceased, Muhammed Obadimeji, died on Sunday while trying to medi-ate between Kayode Babasola and Eniola Ayodele.

Babasola and Ayodele were reportedly engaged in a fight over who was the true lover of the girl, simply identified as Barakat, when the incident happened.

Obadimeji was stabbed to death by one of the two feuding lovers who was attempting to injure his rival.

A police source who is aware of the case and pleaded anonymity said the deceased was rushed to the hospital by residents of the area after being stabbed but died some hours after arriving at the hospital.