

Two killed in Akwa Ibom rival cults clash

By Ayoyinka Jegede, Uyo
22 July 2021 | 3:05 am

Oyetola orders inclusion of rural dwellers' demands in 2022 budget

11 hours ago

[FILES] Akwa Ibom

Kwara gov greets Adedoyin at 60

11 hours ago

No fewer than two persons have been in cult battles in Etim Ekpo Local Government Area of Akwa Ibom State.

The crisis has also sacked the village head of Udianga Enem community, Chief Mendie Josiah Udoekoriko, who fled his throne.

Recall that a pastor was killed in his presence around his palace area a few years ago, while the cult war raged, forcing Governor Udom Emmanuel to offer amnesty, and several of them left the bush to drop their arms.

Stakeholders brainstorm on ways to check forests degradation in Anambra

11 hours ago

The latest incident, it was gathered, occurred on Monday night when a rival cult group said to be Iceland, led by one Oto, from Obon Ebot, stormed the Udianga Enem community to retrieve stolen items, allegedly seized by the opposing gang in the nearby community of Obong Ntak.