

Man allegedly beats pregnant wife to death in Oyo

From Seye Olumide, Ibadan

A YOUNG man in his 40s, Azeez, is currently on the run, after he allegedly beat his pregnant wife, Nimatalahi Giwa, to death in the Saki area of Oke-Ogun, Oyo State.

Nimatalahi was said to be in her early 30s.

The Guardian learnt that she made efforts to escape more beatings from Azeez, but fell with the pregnancy while running.

Allegedly ignored by an angry Azeez for some time before help came, Nimatalahi was later rushed to the hospital, where she died three hours after.

The deceased, who was eight months pregnant, was alleged to have been constantly subjected to beating by her husband with the last incident leading to her death.

Sometime ago, she was said to have reported a miscarriage due to domestic violence from the husband. The Oyo State Police Public Relation Officer (PPRO), Adewale Osifeso, didn't pick several calls made to him for confirmation.
