

The MetroSection

91-year-old professor who just became SAN, Oyewo dies in Ibadan

Oyewo

From Rotimi Agboluaje, Ibadan

NINETY-ONE-YEAR-OLD law lecturer, who was recently elevated to the rank of Senior Advocate of Nigeria (SAN), Prof. Ajagbe Oyewo, is dead.

The professor died after a week at the Intensive Care Unit (ICU) of the University College Hospital (UCH), Ibadan.

It was gathered that the professor was admitted at UCH following a serious accident on his way to Owo few days ago.

At 90, the Professor of Law is regarded as the oldest lawyer to be awarded SAN.

He was born in his home town Erunmu, Oyo State, on January 11, 1932. His educational qualifications are LLB (London), 1960; M.P.A. 1973,

M. Phil. 1983 and Ph.D., 1985.

He was called to the Bar in 1962 and is a member of the Lincoln's Inn, London. He was expert in local government law and administration.

He served as an Administrative Secretary, Legal Secretary and Executive Secretary to a number of local government councils in the defunct Western State, among others.

Police nab two suspected hoodlums in Imo, recover gun, other items

From Charles Ogugbuaja, Owerri

OPERATIVES of the Imo State Police Command have arrested two suspected hoodlums, recovered one pump action gun and other items.

According to a statement by the Command's Public Rela-

The Command said: "On combing the bush and searching the hoodlums' hideout, the following exhibits were recovered: One Pump Action Gun with two live cartridges, 10 different makes of motorcycles, seven new motorcycles, 10 forged motorcycle particu-

MEANWHILE, the command has appealed communities in the state, to stop allowing criminals to use their areas as safe haven to commit crimes.

"Moreso, communities are advised to form vigilante groups/ neighbourhood watch associ-