THE Centre for Human and Socio-economic Rights (CHSR) has called on the Inspector General of Police (IGP), Kayode Egbetokun and Lagos State governor, Babajide Sanwo-Olu to order an investigation into the murder of Sheriff Ishola Salami. Salami, a youth leader in Ojomu community, Ajiranland, Lagos, was gruesomely murdered at MOBA town, adjacent Ajiran, on Tuesday, April 18. However, three months after the unfortunate incident, the police are yet to unravel those behind the murder.

President of CHSR, Alex Omotehinse, told newsmen that the group was disturbed that the police are yet to demonstrate seriousness in the investigation of the callous murder.

He called on Lagos State government to compel the Police Command to unravel perpetrators of the callous murder.

He said: "The apparent insensitivity of the police authority would however, appear deliberate or orchestrated in spite of a quest for justice by the immediate family of the deceased and concerned indigenes of the community.

"We received a copy of the petition dated May 8 and submitted to the Assistant Inspector General of Police (AIG), Zonal Command Headquarters, Zone II, Onikan, Lagos on the situation in Ojomu community.
