The police in Kwara State, yesterday, confirmed the death of a middle-aged woman during sex romp with a barber lover in Ilorin, the state capital.

The Guardian learnt that the woman died at a hotel in the Temidire area of Ilorin.

Her lover has consequently been arrested and is currently helping the state Police command in its investigations.

It was gathered that the barber had before their meeting at a popular guest house around Ofa garage, took some herbal concoctions to enhance performance and impress the deceased.

According to a source, the lovers were entangled in marathon sex before the incident.

“Before her demise, the woman had said she was tired, and at the same time, we saw blood-like substance dripping out of her private part,” the source alleged.

Another source and staff of the hotel said It was at this point that she became helpless, and thereafter died.

The Guardian further learnt that the boyfriend and some hotel staff had rushed the lady to a nearby hospital where she was confirmed dead by a doctor on duty.

Consequently, the owner of the Guest House was informed of the incident and he called police officers from the “A Division” around Challenge, Ilorin, who came and arrested the barber.

When contacted, spokesperson for State Police Command, Ajayi Okasanmi, confirmed the arrest of the barber.

He said the state police command has commenced full investigations to know what happened between him and the deceased during the incident.
