A family of 11 lost their lives in a fire accident at the weekend in Rigasa, a suburb of Kaduna metropolis.

Daily Independent gathered that the fire, which was said to have resulted from an electrical fault, gutted a storey building, killing the occupants with only one survivor, who is now in a critical condition and receiving treatment in an undisclosed hospital.

The Executive Secretary of State Emergency Agency (SEMA), Alhaji Aliyu Sale Ramin Kura, said the fire started at about 4.00am before the arrival of fire men. Eleven people were burnt into ashes, while only one person survived. He decried the situation where people don't care about safety. Sale urged the residents to always switch off their electrical appliances before retiring to bed at night, adding that candle should be used properly.
