Gun men, suspected to be armed robbers have killed a police constable in Sapele, Delta State.

The police officer was said to be on regular police surveillance when he was shot.

Sources in Sapele said the killing was as a revenge mission against the late policeman said to be very hostile to the public.

According to the source who pleaded anonymity, the police officer impounded a motorcycle and refused to release it to the owner, hence the attack.

But when the Daily Independent sought clarification from the Divisional Police Officer at the Sapele, Chief Superintendent of Police Danjuma Kromda, said it was not true. According to him, the late officer was among others, who were officially patrolling the Ogorode new road when they were attacked.
