Police have arrested 10 night guards, who allegedly killed a man and buried him secretly at Lino Oil Nigeria Limited, Idi-Ayunre, Ibadan, Oyo State;

While parading the men on Wednesday, the state Police Commissioner, Udom Ekpoudom, said the suspects shot and killed one unidentified man on Saturday night and buried him secretly inside the premises of the company.

The commissioner disclosed that he deployed his men to the area following a tip-off.

After investigation, the police-men picked up the suspects who carried out the dastardly act for reasons yet to be disclosed.

Ekpoudom added that one of the suspects, Ademola Adeyemo, was found with a locally made double barrel gun with four cartridges.

"The arrested suspects have confessed that they actually killed the unidentified man.

"They revealed that on July 28 at 1a.m, one man suspected to be a thief gained entry into the premises of Lina Oil Nigeria Limited, and that they had no option than to shoot him.

"Having killed the alleged thief, the security guards conspired and secretly buried the deceased before dawn," Ekpoudom added.

The commissioner, however, said the men would soon be arraigned in court.
