

Gunmen Kill Three Community Leaders In Rivers

Suspected cult members on Thursday invaded Ogbokoro, a village in Obio Akpor Council, Rivers State and killed three community leaders for allegedly facilitating the arrest of their colleagues.

A local broadcast station in the state had on Wednesday reported that the community handed over cult members to the military Joint Task Force (JTF) in its late night bulletin.

A source from the community confirmed that some cult members were rounded up by the community and handed over to the JTF on Tuesday.

He said the gunmen, who invaded the community, might have been cult members who escaped before the arrival of troops in the area.

"Some cult boys were arrested by JTF on Tuesday. At 4p.m. on Thursday some of the boys who had escaped came back and attacked the community.