Operational Manager of Guarantee Trust Bank, Mrs. Victoria Omagbogu, was shot dead by persons suspected to be hired assassins in Jos over the weekend.

A source close to the residence of the deceased, told Sunday Independent on Saturday that late Omagbogu was trailed to her residence by the men, numbering about six on Friday night after she had closed from work at about 7 p.m. and pumped bullets into her vehicle before she could come out of it. Before people could come to terms with what was going on, the criminals had disappeared.

When Sunday Independent got to the scene of the unfortunate incident on Saturday, the residence of the deceased was filled with sympathisers who thronged the house to sympathise with her family.

Her husband, Godwin, and other family members were completely dazed over the incident that befell the mother of the house and could not offer any explanation regarding the calamity.

A family member who spoke with Sunday Independent on condition of anonymity said the husband had forgiven those behind the dastardly act.

He further added that the police came to the house on Saturday morning and removed the remains of the late woman to the Jos University Teaching Hospital (JUTH) mortuary.
