One person was confirmed dead Monday morning, in a multiple road accidents that occurred along the Lagos Third Mainland Bridge.

The accidents involved 12 cars, a bus and a truck.

Daily Independent reliably gathered that a truck lost control before veering off its lane and rammed into an AICO Insurance staff bus, which was conveying workers of the company to their respective offices in Lagos Island.

This resulted in multiple collisions, involving the AICO bus and 13 other vehicles.

Lagos State Sector Commander of the Federal Road Safety Commission (FRSC), Jonas Agwu, confirmed the incident.

According to him, the injured had been taken to Lagos State University Teaching Hospital (LASUTH), Ikeja for treatment.

The dead victim, whose identity is still unknown, was said to have been deposited at an undisclosed public mortuary for autopsy.
