The bank, located along Ezza Road, near the new Central Bank Cash Office, according to a source, came under heavy gun fire about 20:21p.m., leaving the two police corporals on guard dead.

They were killed in gun duel that lasted over several hours at unholy hours of Monday.

Daily Independent could not, however, confirm if the hoodlums succeeded in the robbery at the time of filing this report, but a visit to the bank saw the security post, including the windows shattered by bullets and the premises condoned off by stern looking security operatives.

A source disclosed that some staff of the bank also sustained gunshot injuries.

When contacted, the Ebonyi Police Command Police Public Relations Officer (PPRO), John Eluu, said the command was shocked to learn about the incident, saying the Police Commissioner, Emmanuel Ayeni, had directed that all necessary actions be put in place to ensure that the armed robbers were apprehended within the next 24 hours.

The incident was the second in one week as a meat seller Abakaliki was attacked and a huge sum of money stolen from him. The victim, according to a source, was shot and is reportedly lying critically at the Federal Medical Centre FMC, Abakaliki.

At St Patrick road also in the state capital, a nursing mother was attacked and robbed while a correspondent of a Federal Government-owned media outfit in the state was equally visited by the hoodlums but did not succeed in gaining entrance into his house.
