ONE PERSON was feared dead in an attack by unknown gunmen who went on shooting spree in Enugu on Saturday.

The incident occurred around 10 a.m. near the traffic light at Artisan Market of Enugu metropolis.

A witness told Sunday Independent that she was buying some items at the market when the entire area was thrown into confusion by sound of gunshots.

"We were shopping for Christmas when suddenly we heard gunshots all over the place. I ran into my customer's shop and we all took cover under a table. We were there until the gunshots ceased," she said.

Sunday Independent further gathered that the gunmen escaped, leaving a young man in a pool of his own blood.

Police Public Relations Officer (PPRO) to the Enugu State Command, Ebere Anarazu, confirmed the incident, but said no death was recorded.

Anarazu gave the name of the victim of the shooting as Ifeanyi Ogbodo, popularly known as "Thunder. Balogun".

"The Enugu state command of the Nigeria Police has commenced investigation into the shooting incident," he added.
