THE Commandant of the Vigilante Group of Nigeria, (VGN) Lagos State Chapter, Olusola Olawale has solicited the assistance of the Lagos State House of Assembly in combating crime in the state.

Olawale, who stated this on Monday evening when he led other members of the group to the Speaker, explained how the police often frustrate his men in the fight to rid the state of armed robbery and other criminal activities.

He also accused the police of releasing criminal suspects handed over to them by his men thereby putting officers of his group at serious risk." After the police release the suspected criminals, these criminals go after the our members who handed them over to the police, killing some and maiming others. As at now, we have seven of our men who have been killed some of the released criminals.
