AN official of Nigerian Security and Civil Defence Corps (NSCDC), Simon Idowo narrowly escaped death as two persons lost their lives in a ghastly auto crash at Enugu Port-Harcourt expressway by Ituku Ozalla junction on the eve of the New Year.

Idowo who serves at Akun Division in Nassarawa state is now responding to treatment at University of Nigeria Teaching Hospital (UNTH) Ituku Ozalla near Enugu.

According to a statement by the spokesman of Enugu State Police Command, Ebere Amaraizu, at about 1.45pm on December 29, a white bus with registration number PHC 90 GRK with three occupants allegedly hit one stationery trailer with registration number XC 905 GRK loaded with bags of cement from the rear around Enugu/Port-Harcourt Express way by Ituku Ozalla Enugu.

Amaraizu said as a result, the bus caught fire and went in flames, leaving the three occupants injured.

"They were later rushed to University of Nigeria Teaching Hospital Ituku Ozalla for medical attention where two of the victims were confirmed dead while one of them identified as Simon Idowo believed to be a personnel of Nigeria Security and Civil Defence Corps Akun Division Nassarawa state is responding to treatment" the police spokesman said.
