By Sunday Apah/Ughelli Hell was let loose on Friday, in Ovwian, Udu Local Government Area, Delta State following the drowning of a 14-year old boy, identified as Master Aghogho Okoh in the Ovwian river. A source told Saturday Independent that Aghogho accompanied his father; Mr Ona Okoh, who is a fisherman to fish on that fateful day. He explained that "late Aghogho and his father went out for fishing at about 6 a.m, and in the process of fishing, the canoe in which they were fishing, suddenly capsized. Aghoogho felled inside the river with his net, immediately his father swam to save him but before getting to the shore Aghogho had died due to the net had hooked him on the head and legs. "All efforts to save Aghogho by local divers who rushed to the scene of the incident proved abortive as he didn't make it up to the shore."
