

that I know robbed. I

though I have known they were robbers.

Girl, 13, Crushed To Death Inside Mother's Shop

By Gbenga Faturoti

Osogbo

TRAGEDY occurred Sunday at Ile-Olowola Compound, Ilobu, Irepodun Local Government Area of Osun, when a 13-year old girl simply identified as Sukura Jimoh was crushed to death by a vehicle inside her mother's shop, when a gold-coloured Toyota Camry with registration number JJJ 825 DB veered off the road, hitting the girl inside the shop.

She died on the spot.

The incident which occurred around 10.30 am has been confirmed by the Osun State Police Command.

An angry mob within the vicinity set the car ablaze while the driver was rescued through quick intervention of Policemen located within the town.

According to an eye witness account, the driver of the car, Gbenga Ayangoke (28) of Ile Iyaloja Compound Erin-Osun, while on top speed, lost control and veered off the road, knocking the victim down inside the shop.

The State Police Public Relations Officer (PPRO), Mrs. Folasade Odoro, a Deputy Superintendent of Police, confirmed the incident, explaining that normalcy has been restored to the area. She assured that the driver of the car is helping the police in their investigation and that the remains of the girl has been deposited at the General Hospital, Ilobu for autopsy.

Mrs. Odoro said further that the matter will be taken to court after the completion of the investigation.

RA

ars ago.
"Many
e state
we had
it them
register

impor-
mation
agency,
the in-
athered
on, we
ore La-
e Bus
t buses
drive

that a
of La-
travel
hat it
years