Olubusoye Olayinka Ogunbiyi, the deceased security aide of Governor Ibikunle Amosun of Ogun State, was Tuesday buried at his residence in Gudugba, Ifo Local Government Area of the state.

Ogunbiyi, an Assistant Superintendent of Police (ASP), lost his life to a ghastly motor accident along with Sammy Akinwale Ogunbiyi, his younger brother.

Until his death, Ogunbiyi, popular called 'Robot' was the second-in-command in the convoy of the Governor and was travelling home after the day's work before meeting his death.

Top government functionaries, family members, colleagues and friends of the deceased had defied the early morning downpour to pay their last respect to the officer who was widely described as peace loving and easy-going.
