Olufemi

Ibadan – One Ganiu Olufemi was allegedly shot dead on Monday, in a fresh attack by unknown persons, suspected to be hired assassins at Ijaye village in the Akinyele Local Government Area of Oyo State.

INDEPENDENT gathered that the attackers, numbering four, came few months after similar attacks occurred, where they were allegedly targeting one Oladipupo Omidia, who escaped the village, before the arrival of the attackers.

A villager, who spoke off records, said attackers arrived the village on that fateful Monday to allegedly killed Ganiu and Oladipupo, for reasons that could be political.

According to the source, Oladipupo may have been the target following his relationship with some political and religious leaders in the village. He was reportedly a member of the village council and was also a member of the church.

said to be planning to travel out of Nigeria.

His son, who is resident with the mother at 26 Omiyale Close, Agege, in Lagos, was allegedly injured while escaping an attack from the unknown assassins, a source said.
