

Two Docked For Alleged Robbery, Murder Of Petrol Station Attendant

By Titilope Joseph - January 16, 2018

Lagos – Two men were on Monday arraigned before a Lagos High Court sitting in Lagos for alleged robbery of a petrol station and murder of one of its attendants.

The defendants, Rufai Aliyu (25) ,Abdulrasak Bello (22) are facing a three-count charge bothering on conspiracy, armed robbery, and murder.

According to the prosecution team led by Mrs C.K Tunji-Carrena, the defendants at about 11pm on the May 2, 2015 robbed a petrol station situated at No, 12/14, Iju road, Ifako-Ijaiye Lagos.

The charge read against the defendants says that : Rufai Aliyu, Abdulrassak Bello and others at large conspired among themselves to commit armed robbery.

The duo were also alleged to have murdered the petrol station attendants Daramola Yemisi by tying his neck, hands, mouth, legs with clothes, causing his death.

The prosecution informed the court that the offences committed by the defendants contravenes Sections 297, 295 and 221 of the Lagos State Criminal law of Lagos state, 2011. The defendants however pleaded not guilty to the charges.

The presiding judge, Justice Josephine Oyefeso thereafter adjourned the matter till March 27, 2018 for commencement of trial.

Do you get a good or bad response from your wife after making love? Discover a great natural solution that changed my story and put an end to weak/premature ejaculation, CLICK HERE.

Titilope Joseph