ADO-EKITI – Few hours after the schools across the state vacated for the Christmas and New Year’s festivities, three pupils were crushed to death by a bus in Ado-Ekiti on Friday. The incident occurred at about 2.30 pm at Ilokun, a farmstead along Ado-Iworoko road. An eye witness reliably confirmed that the pupils were returning home from school and were about crossing the Ado-Iworoko-Ifaki highway when the vehicle, which was coming from Ekiti State University (EKSU) ram into them.

Three of out of the long train of pupils who crossed the highway were said to have been killed instantly, while others sustained injuries.

“The victims and the injured have been taken to the hospital. It was a sad incident as families of the deceased converged to weep profusely over the loss of the children.”

It was gathered that some of the sympathisers also wept and described the incident as a disaster to the state.

The Police Public Relations Officer, Ekiti Command, Mr Sunday Abutu could not be reached as his mobile phone was switched off.

Abutu's counterpart in the Federal Road Safety Corps(FRSC), Mohammed Olowo, said the Command has not been briefed about the sad event .

“The FRSC has not been briefed but we are going to mobilise our men to that axis to confirm what actually happened,” he said.
